Happy interns and a supercharged talent pipeline? Consider it done.

In today's ultra-competitive talent environment, companies like yours need every little advantage they can muster. Filling the talent pipeline early through a robust internship program is one key way to get — and stay — ahead.

However, competition over top-tier interns has intensified as well. The brightest young minds often weigh multiple opportunities — and if your offering doesn't measure up, you risk getting left in the dust.

That's where Point C Jumpstart comes in. Point C Jumpstart is a technology platform designed specifically for managing internship programs after an offer has been accepted — ensuring interns have a smooth journey with your company. With Point C Jumpstart, you can offer:

- > An information hub that surrounds interns with all the tools they need — for onboarding, mentoring and more — in one place, including a chat feature for when they need a bit of 1:1 attention.
- > The right info at the right time. Provide customized information and resources such as budgeting assistance, home-finding support, work-from-home tips and information on life with your company.

- > A seamless experience. Interns will use the platform on their schedule and at their own pace. Crystal-clear categories and step-by-step instructions will help interns stay organized and confident as they access critical resources.
- > The care they need. Offer interns the support and guidance they need to avoid common pitfalls. Valuable tools such as safe housing recommendations, train/shuttle schedules and home office advice have a huge impact on the intern experience.
- > Support that goes beyond work. Help interns with life skills and — if they're going through a move — get them connected to Plus Relocation to manage their relocation benefits.

Point C Jumpstart is unique in the talent and HR world because it is designed specifically for the intern experience, whether your interns are working remotely or need to relocate for the opportunity. It's also fully customizable to meet the needs of your internship program — you decide how the platform looks and what's offered.

It's time to win the competition for top, young talent.
It's time for Point C Jumpstart.
